DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1, 3, 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Pehlke, U.S. Patent # 6,396,341 B1.

Fig. 9 of Pehlke discloses a circuit comprising: amplifier 901 can be read as a class E amplifier; transistor 916 can be read as a first transistor; transistor 922 can be read as a second transistor; multiplex 914 can be read as a controller; inductor 932 can be read as an inductor; capacitor 936 can be read as a shunt capacitor.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 3, 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Bowers et al., U.S. Patent # 5,926,093.

Fig. 7B of Bowers et al. discloses a circuit comprising: amplifier 10' can be read as a class E amplifier; switch Qs on top can be read as a first transistor; switch Qs on bottom can be read as a second transistor (see spec. col. 6, lines 24-38); circuit to control switches Qs can be read as a controller; inductor Ls can be read as an inductor; capacitor Cs can be read as a shunt capacitor.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pehlke, U.S. Patent # 6,396,341 B1.

Although Pehlke does mention that the frequency is at least 13.56 MHz, the value of the frequency is just a design variable, thus it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to design to the frequency of at least 13.56 MHz in order to meet system requirements and to have an optimum working condition for the circuit.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6-16 are allowed.

Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. U.S. Patents # 6,448,847 B1, # 6,591,139 B2, # 6,621,339 B2 contain some limitations of the claimed invention.
